Key Focus: Sharing their passion for multifamily real estate investing through podcasts, books, and coaching

Jake & Gino are owner/operators who have amassed over $130,000,000 in assets under management, and host one of the top multifamily podcasts on iTunes. Their education company teaches students to become multifamily entrepreneurs.

What started out as a conversation between friends about the possibilities multifamily investing could bring their way exploded into a thriving real estate investment business that continues to grow in size and profitability. Jake and Gino are both experts in multifamily real estate investing and have achieved, in just a few years, the sort of financial freedom they always wanted but weren't sure was possible.

While a certain amount of timing, coincidence, and luck brought Jake and Gino together, their website, books, and an arsenal of podcasts help bring that same luck, and years of experience, to other investors. If a pizza guy and pharmaceutical sales rep can do it, other listeners can too! Unlike many Investing Consultants and so-called Business Coaches, Jake and Gino have done the work with the assets to back their success strategies while consistently reaching their goals.
